Section X, Representation Standards for Appellate Advocacy

2. HANDLING THE CASE<sup>1</sup>

- A. As soon as feasible after conviction or commitment, appellate counsel should confer personally with the appellant to discuss the case. Counsel should explain the meaning and consequences of the court's judgment as well as the right to an appeal and a general outline of the appellate process.
- B. Counsel shall, within the time frame set forth in the Rules of Appellate Procedure, request all transcripts and case records.
- C. Counsel shall promptly review all transcripts and case records and discuss the matter with trial counsel.
- D. After reviewing the record, counsel should confer with the appellant and discuss whether, in his or her professional judgment, there are meritorious grounds for appeal and the probable results of an appeal. Counsel should explain the advantages and disadvantages of an appeal. The decision whether to proceed with the appeal must be the client's own.
- E. Counsel shall be diligent in expediting the timely submission of the appeal and shall comply with all applicable rules regarding conduct, pleadings, deadlines, and citations to authority.
- F. Counsel shall not abandon an appeal solely on the basis of his or her own determination that the appeal lacks merit, but rather should advance any sound basis for changing the law. If, after conscientious analysis, counsel determines that there are no non-meritorious grounds for appeal, counsel should follow the procedures outlined in Anders v. California, 386 U.S. 738 (1967) and §46-8-103 MCA. Counsel shall discuss with the client the termination that counsel has made and give due consideration to the wishes of the client.
- G. If counsel, after investigation, is satisfied that another lawyer who served in an earlier phase of the case did not provide effective assistance, and those facts appear on the record, he or she should seek appellate relief for the client on that ground. If counsel is satisfied that a prior attorney did not provide effective assistance and the facts do not appear on the record, counsel should advise the client regarding postconviction rights and, if the appeal is not successful, file the appropriate postconviction petitions.
- H. After exercising independent professional judgment, which may include omitting issues too weak or tenuous to secure relief or distractive of superior claims, counsel should assert claims which are supported by the record and which will benefit the client if successful.

 $<sup>^{1}</sup>$  These standards assume that trial counsel has filed all appropriate post-trial motions as well as a Timely Notice of Appeal

- I. Counsel should be scrupulously accurate in referring to the record and the authorities upon which counsel relies in the briefing and oral argument.
- J. Counsel should seek editing assistance and legal feedback from at least one other attorney before filing a brief or a substantial motion. If oral argument is granted, counsel should prepare appropriately, including participating in a moot court session.
- K. Counsel shall periodically apprise the client of the progress of the case and copy the client on all pleadings filed or received.
- L. When an opinion is issued, counsel shall promptly communicate the outcome to the client and explain remaining remedies, including the right to postconviction relief, and the scope of further representation. This information, with particular emphasis on applicable deadlines, should be memorialized in a letter to the client.
- M. Counsel shall apply professional judgment when determining whether to file a petition for re-hearing or a petition for certiorari to the United States Supreme Court. If counsel believes that the client has a valid claim of ineffective assistance of counsel, counsel should conduct the appropriate investigation and file a timely petition for postconviction relief.
- N. When counsel's representation terminates, counsel shall cooperate with the client and any succeeding counsel in the transmission of the records, transcripts, files, and other information pertinent to postconviction proceedings.
